

GRADUATING TEACHERS: IT'S YOUR MOVE

Ready to start thinking about your future teaching career?

Now's the time to consider your options, as the NSW Department of Education and Training launches its Graduate Recruitment Program (GRP).

A career in NSW public education not only connects you to the largest education provider in the southern hemisphere – with all the advantages and benefits of its size – but also enables you to truly make a difference as a teacher.

To tell you more about the GRP, we will be visiting selected university campuses across the State in the next few weeks.

Find out more about:

- applying for permanent positions
- your interview
- casual and temporary teaching opportunities
- financial incentives.

To assist you in completing your application, we will be handing out GRP information booklets during these visits.

Check our website for the latest session schedule.

Take your first step to your teaching future.
